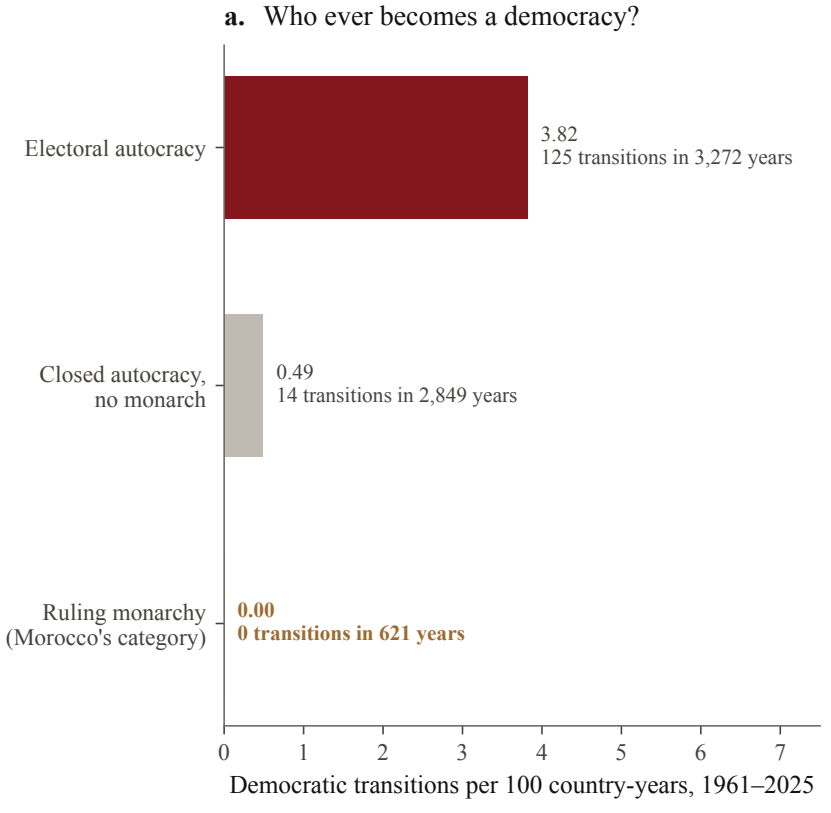
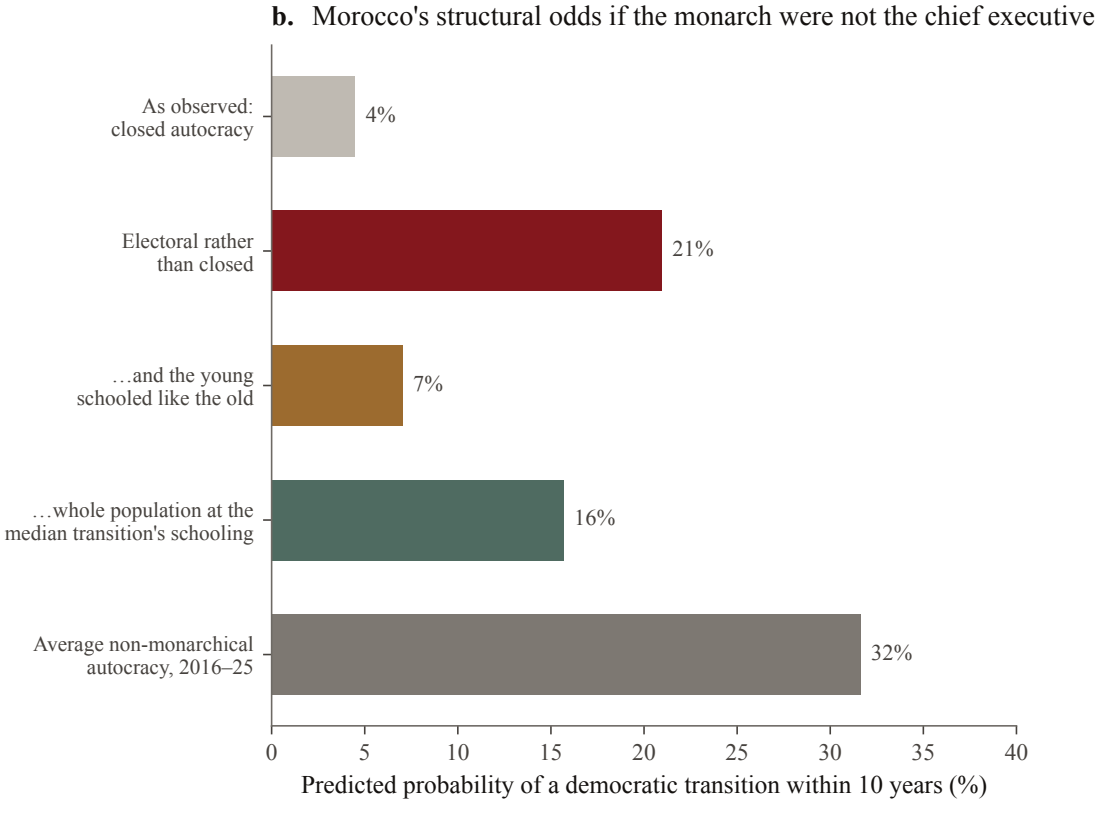
Figure 21. In 621 ruling-monarchy years since 1961 there has not been a single direct transition to democracy; lift that constraint and Morocco's income and schooling predict odds of about one in five per decade





Panel b: discrete-time logit hazard estimated on non-monarchical autocracies (Table 22, models 2–3), applied to Morocco's 2025 covariates. The young-cohort scenario rests on the generational-gap effect, which is not robust to decade fixed effects (Table 22c).
